Chapter 1 by Gyro

I got off my onion space ship and walked on to the barren planet. Crazy Dave said there was signals coming from Zomboss creations here and I was just about find what they were coming from.

Chapter 2 by Dan_K

"They call this place Earth?" I asked my partner, Onioni. Most Onionies have Onion-themed names, Onioni is the name of 1/3rd of our population.

"Yeah. Used to have plenty of life, but Zomboss took over and moved them to one of his planets in the Jalapeno system. Heard they were doing fine there." Onioni answered, with his Bronz, New Jork accent.

We walked around for a few days, collecting samples, exploring. There were clear signs of previous life, huge abandoned cities, cultivated land, buildings and infrastructure everywhere. But we needed to get to Washington DC, a part of the planet that the Zomboss signals were coming from. We transported there quickly.

"Pardon, Mr., but who is his Majesty?" Onioni naively asked. He always asked questions that could get us killed, and this was no exception.

She smiled, but in a way that got me scared to the bone.

"Me. Now destroy their memory!" She shouted to the guards. We were chained off and sent away.
